01.02 - Management of event organisation - The organiser alone shall determine the venue, dates, and opening hours of the event, the price for exhibition areas, entrance fees and the registration deadline. It shall establish the list of products and services presented and shall determine the categories of people or companies permitted to exhibit or attend the event.

The organiser shall be solely responsible for defining and structuring the offer relating to its commercial event. It reserves the right to provisionally or definitively refuse any application to participate that does not meet the required conditions, either with regard to the provisions of the application form, or the terms of the General Regulations for Commercial Events, the specific regulations or the event item list, or in interest of public order and any applicable laws and regulations.

The maps communicated and the description of lots shall include dimensions that are as accurate as possible, if the event venue so allows.

04.03 - Impossibility of claiming any rights to a stand - The exhibitor may under no circumstances claim priority or automatic right to a stand from one session to another. Participation in previous events shall not give the exhibitor any rights arising from said precedence.

05.02 - UNIMEV charter - During the installation period, the exhibitor shall comply with the professional charter on health and safety for employees working in parallel during installation and take-down operations for commercial events, adopted by UNIMEV during its general meeting of 2 July 2010, available at <http://www.unimev.fr/>.

06.01 - Ban on transferring, subletting or exchanging an exhibition space - Exhibitors participating in the commercial event are prohibited from transferring, subletting or exchanging any or all of the space allocated by the organiser, whether free of charge or in return for payment.

06.02 - Exhibitor no-show - Any exhibitor that, for any reason whatsoever, has not taken possession of its exhibition space the day of the event opening, or by the final installation deadline set by the organiser, shall be considered to have relinquished its right to exhibit.
